Jonesville High School.

E. R. AYCOCK, Principal.
MISS MILDRED PERKINS, Asst. Principal
MISS ADICE STRIBLING, of Converse College, Music Teacher.

OPENS Wednesday, Sept. 12th, 1894.

The Principal and Trustees of this school have decided to place it upon a higher grade of efficiency and educational advantages than it has ever before attained and at the lowest cost. Our intention is to give thorough instruction from the first grade to the last, so no scholar need to leave his home school until he is prepared for College.

Special attention will be given to English, Mathematics, Latin and Greek through Xenophons' Anabasis. Pupils desiring to take lessons in French will be taught by Miss Perkins. Those desiring to study German may do so. Few schools offer the same advantages to small children as this. Good location. Purest air and water.

Religious influences. Pious community. No barrooms in town. Three churches in place, all have a good Sunday School. Good board can be had at $8 per month.

Respectfully,
E. R. AYCOCK.

P. S.—We wish to emphasize the importance of all the pupils being present the morning school opens.
